We Come Today
Words: Edith Tillotson, 1903.
Music: Ira Wilson.

While Christmas lights are shining, and Christmas carols ring,
While holly wreaths are twining, and happy children sing,
We gather with rejoicing, we march upon our way,
With music sweet, we gladly greet the merry Christmas Day.

Refrain

While Christmas chimes are ringing, we come today,
And Christmas songs we're singing along the way,
Our banners raising, with hymns of praising,
We come this Christmas Day.

While Christmas bells are ringing, and Christmas greetings sound,
While happy lips are singing, as hearts with pleasure bound,
We come with songs of gladness, that echo far away,
Our voices raise a hymn of praise, for merry Christmas Day.

Refrain

While Christmas songs are swelling, and Christmas garlands glow,
While loving words are telling, the tale that well we know,
We meet again to welcome the season glad and gay,
The blessd morn when Christ was born, the merry Christmas Day.
