Close to Crazy
A B7 E

E           E7                              A                                Am
I still reach for you, in the middle of my dreams each night
E                      E7                          A  Am
But my arms come up empty every time
E                    E7                   A                                    Am
And lately I talk to your memory more than I should
E                    E7                      E
If I could just forget the past I would
              Am                          A            B7
'Cause this missing you ain't doing me no good
CHORUS
                  A  B7                   E
I'm so close to crazy, right on the edge
               A                          B7                          E
Just one step away from going insane, but I'm not there yet
                  A              Am                  C#m   B7   A
If I could just lose my mind, I wouldn't know we're through
               A                  B7                  E
But this close to crazy, is far from over you
************
E      E7                  A                 Am
Today I caught myself, reliving how it used to be
E                  E7                   A   Am
At a table for two just you and me
E                   E7                        A                          Am
But talking to an empty chair and laughing right out loud
    E                           E7                          E
Turned everybody's head and left no doubt
        Am            A                        B7
I'm a broken woman close to breaking down
Repeat Chorus
                  A            B7                 E
Oh this close to crazy, is far from over you
E          E7
I still reach for you
        A               Am                  E
In the middle of my dreams each night
